

PURELY PERSONAL OPINIONS

Our thanks to the many people who have congratulated us on our news pictures and story on the destruction of the north road over the Mill Pond last week. An editor sure likes to hear approval, after a thing like that.

We see by the Farwell News that the Clare County Road Commission prints a frequent statement of financial outlay and minutes of its meetings. Far back as we can remember (1912 was when the Roes came to Weidman) Isabella County's road department has never made public its expenditures and activities. Or if it did, we missed it. Anybody else ever see a financial statement for the Isabella County road department?

It's purely good to see farmers' trucks and trailers lined up at the Weidman Mill again. Weidman Bader Company, under management of Bill Riley, has succeeded in bringing our area farmers back to Weidman for their feed, grinding, seeds and fertilizer services. It sure helps.

Getting back to roads, the worst one we've seen in years was the one through Brinton westward, along in March. Apparently snow had not been properly scraped nor any grading done there. That was one rough road.

We've always claimed that Weidman has traditionally been the orphan of the county road department. Now we're ready to share that doubtful honor with Brinton.

IBM GOES HAYWIRE
AT CRUCIAL TIME

For the first time since the Messenger changed over to offset printing, it experienced mechanical difficulties.

The IBM typewriter, which gets up the news type such as this, went way off about 4.30 Monday afternoon--the worst day of the week, except possibly Tuesday.

A trouble call to Mt. Pleasant and later to Saginaw for repair men solved the problem late Tuesday morning. So--some of our type is not strictly up to par. We worked on it before the IBM man got here from Saginaw Tuesday morning.

Modern gadgets are wonderful, but a complete mystery except to the outfit that makes 'em.

BIG FLOCK OF SWANS VISITS WEIDMAN

A flock of 40 to 50 big white swans spent last Wednesday night on the Weidman Mill Pond and rose about 7.30 on Thursday morning with a great to-do vocally.

The big flock circled Weidman and took off in a north-west direction.

Usually we have a pair or two of swans that spend summers on the pond. We never before saw or heard so big a flock of them setting down here.

Hope To Open North Road This Week - - Bruce

Work was begun Monday on replacing tubing under the north road over the Weidman Mill Pond.

Ernest Bruce said Monday evening the 7-foot, 7-inch steel tube will be placed three feet below the present water level. The tube is 11 feet, 11 inches wide and 50 feet long, he said. It is made of eight-gauge steel, about three-eighths of an inch thick, he stated.

The county will pay for the road's rebuilding, he said. Four townships put up money to build the north road originally.

Mr. Bruce said he will let the water in the pond down "as far as the mill will let us" to install the tube. He said he expects to let traffic through some time this week. He said that the new tube will be high enough to allow boats to go through from one side of the pond to the other, but a boom should be installed to protect the tube from accumulation of stumps and debris, which, of course, would preclude boats passing through.

PondFishSuppl Other Lakes

The Michigan Conservation Department men took about a hundred pike 17 to 22 inches long and 32 bass, 16 inches in average, from the Weidman Mill Pond last week to plant in various lakes where winter kill has occurred.

The fish were planted in Windover Lake, near Lake George, where the bass were put; Bertha Lake, and Bluegill Lake, near Harrison.

Walter J. Smith, a conservation enthusiast, said, of some criticism of the procedure, "If ice conditions on our Mill Pond had been normal this year, fishermen would have taken three times as many as the Conservation Department took.

"There is illegal spearing of pike at spawning time," he continued. "If this were discontinued, many more pike would be saved for fishing here than were taken out to plant."

Jack Hammond, Fisheries Supervisor for this district, observed that pike in the Weidman Mill Pond were stunted in growth. He said he would look into the situation for the reason as soon as he could.

Conservation men also took out about 25 four to five pound carp from the west side of the pond. None was found in the east side. Carp are scavenger fish.

Recently we stated in this History that the city of Harrison was named after Bill Harrison.

Actually the town was named for Robert Harrison, father of Mary Bick. Robert Harrison was cook for the biggest lumber camp up there, and they called it Harrison's Camp. Soon other camps sprang up, and presently a town. They called it Harrison.

EARLY DAYS IN SHERMAN CITY

Martin Boger brought in the following statistics on Sherman City of the old days, from a Dunn & Bradstreet edition of 1887:

Sherman City, Cahoon's Plat, was laid out Sept. 1, 1873, by John Cahoon and wife. It was located on the north half of the northeast quarter of Sec. 6, Coldwater Township, and consisted of 17 blocks with 130 lots. It was located on the Chippewa River, with the principal part on the east side.

A few buildings were erected when Johnson and Ellis conceived that there was sufficient room, and also prospects, for a larger city than Mr. Cahoon had realized.

So they platted a part of the south half of the southeast quarter of Sec. 31, Sherman Township; also a part of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of Sec. 31, and a part of the northwest quarter of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of Sec. 6, Sherman Township; in all, 24 blocks and 114 lots.

The public highway was located on the section line between Sec. 31, Coldwater Township, and Sec. 6, Sherman Township, so that the Johnson plat had the advantage of being along the highway and equally well situated.

(The above from "Past and Present of Isabella County, Mich.," by Hon. Isaac A. Fancher, 1911.)

(Editor's Note: The following accounts are from the scrapbook of Frances Shook, our Northwest Sherman news writer, who loaned it to us to copy "Early Days in Sherman City," written by Fred Kent back in the days when Rolla Roe ran the Messenger and the news type was set by hand out of typecases, by himself, his wife, and children.

(Fred Kent was a remarkable man: Storekeeper at Horr, writer of Horr news, and also a philosopher.

(It is with pride that we reproduce some of Mr. Kent's writings on early days in Sherman City, as printed in the Weidman Messenger of Rolla Roe's days.)

Wood & Gilbert owned the first store, and Amos Johnson conducted the business, later became owner and built a two-story building on the (present) site of L. C. Mindel's store. The upper story was used as a dance hall.

Gilbert Johnson became a partner of his brother Amos in the spring of 1876. In 1879 they dissolved partnership, Amos going into business in Mecosta, then just beginning to build up. Later he became Judge of Probate of Mecosta County and moved to Big Rapids, where he died many years ago. John T. Cahoon was an early settler, coming in the fall of 1869.

Entering Sherman City from the south, you will notice a beautiful wide peninsula formed by the curves of the river. Here Mr. Cahoon built a log house and a log bridge to reach it from the road, on the east side of the river. In 1870 he dammed the river, dug a race and built a sawmill. It did not have the capacity of the Weidman mill, but one man could operate it and cut as much as a thousand feet of lumber a day, barring mishaps.

About 1875 David R. Hays and his father-in-law, Asa Swem, kept store in a log building in the south part of town. They went out of business and Fred Cohoon, son of John T., ran a store in the same building for a time, and in 1878 built a frame store building some distance south of the present site of the church.

John T. Cohoon built a hall next to this store, and Dr. Sherlock an office north of it in 1877. The hall was 40x100 feet.

This collection of buildings burned in 1880. Cahoon of the south side and business men of the north side of town were at law for many years over the title to land with the loss of property. Mr. Cohoon became discouraged and moved away. The old dam and race are still to be seen, gone to ruin like the hopes and aspirations of their creator.

Foutch of Farwell operated a sawmill in 1887 or '88. Sold it to Amos Johnson, who operated it. It was wrecked in the cyclone of September, 1878. Johnson then sold to Abe Konkle, who added a shingle mill. Konkle later sold to Straub, who added a hoop mill. While Evans was running the shingle mill it burned.

In 1889 E. J. Adams built a saw and shingle mill on the south side of the road near the river, west side. Hugh Leach was foreman of this mill.

In 1891 he sold to Will Knap, who operated it until his death, when it was sold to Henry C. Rogers in 1894. Wesley Kirvan has kindly furnished us with the names of the crew who worked in the mill in 1895:

They were foreman and filer, H. C. Rogers; shingle sawyer, Lewis Lowe; joiner, John Goodwin; knot sawyers, Wesley Kirvan and Eli Wagerman; bolter, Charlie O'Brien; drag sawyer, Will Sheldon; fireman, Eben McDowell; packers, Ed Alderman and Homer Rodgers. Robert Aylsworth and wife ran the hotel where the crew boarded.

That was the last of the shingle mill business in Sherman City.

The first postoffice was located a mile south of Brinton and a half mile east on the farm now owned by John Warner. The postoffice name was Nero, for no reason anyone now can remember. Martin Ryerson was postmaster. Mail was carried in on foot from Big Rapids about once a week. It was a two-day trip for the mail-carrier, on a trail winding through the woods. The mail was carried in a pack on his back.

A TRIP TO THE SUNNY SOUTH

By Lucinda Sprague

We left good old Weidman at noon Friday, March 27, for a little trip to the Sunny South. We had had a bad snow storm the night before, but were out of the snow before we left Michigan.

We had a wonderful trip all the way to Orlando, Florida. We took our time, with Gary stopping for a coffee break every hour or so. We spent three nights in motels on the way down, and three nights coming back.

We arrived at Sally's and Jerry's in Orlando about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The main attraction there was our new granddaughter, Julie Ann. She is just a doll. About the most beautiful baby ever born, of course. (At least, we thought so.)

We enjoyed the 85-degree weather, and took in as many sights as possible in our short visit. We saw an alligator farm with all the 'gators out sunning themselves--quite a sight.

We also visited the beautiful Cypress Gardens, and drove through several orange and grapefruit orchards. The trees were just loaded with fruit.

We left Orlando Friday morning, April 3, and arrived home about 5 o'clock Monday afternoon. Tuesday we were back at the old sweatshop again, with a little of our Florida Sun fun still showing.

Your Guide to BETTER LIVING!

Yes, let the GOLD MEDALLION be your guide. You know the home displaying it has met the highest standards set by the electrical industry. It is a home planned to be modern today, and far into the future. Take wonderful electric heating found in all GOLD MEDALLION HOMES as an example. Gentle, healthful electric heat—like having your own personal sun on the coldest winter days. No cold spots, hot spots, or drafts in any room—just even, gentle warmth. Clean as electric light, so walls, curtains and furniture stay clean far longer. And electric heating costs less to install, less to maintain, and is economical to use. Electric heating is just one of the reasons why GOLD MEDALLION HOMES are today's only truly modern homes. So before you buy, be sure to look for the GOLD MEDALLION.
